

Coffee Lectures: The 28th Series

Tue, Wed, Thu 13:00–13:10, live in HCI G2 and online via Zoom

<https://ethz.zoom.us/j/63020946312>

Tuesday, 14.3.23

Generate Text with ChatGPT (No. 42)

With advanced language generation, ChatGPT is perfect for writing clear documents, e-mails, and engaging in AI conversations. Try it out today and experience its power!

Speaker: Dr. Leo Betschart

Wednesday, 15.3.23

Elsevier Researcher Academy (No. 39)

Unlock your research potential with the free Elsevier Researcher Academy. Navigate your research from Research Preparation, Writing for Research, Publication Process, and Peer Review to Research Communication. Prove your knowledge through the certificates you can earn.

Speaker: Dr. Oliver Renn

Import Coffee Lectures into your calendar via www.infozentrum.ethz.ch

Thursday, 16.3.23

CAS SciFinder Discovery Platform (No. 44)

Since January 2023, the CAS SciFinder Discovery Platform has been available at ETH Zurich. Learn how to search CAS Life Sciences Content, find formulations in CAS Formulus, and compare analytical methods in CAS Analytical Methods.

Speaker: Dr. Jozica Dolenc

Tuesday, 21.3.23

Altmetrics (No. 40)

Alternative metrics show how scientific papers are used outside of academic publications – in news outlets, social media, and blogs. You can use these metrics to analyze public discussion of your publications and your field of research.

Speaker: Andrej Kilian

Complete and expand your collection of Coffee Lecture cards.

Wednesday, 22.3.23

Reaxys Academic (No. 19)

As of this year, ETH Zurich has licensed Reaxys predictive synthesis planner and medicinal chemistry data. We will showcase several applications of these recently accessible tools.

Speaker: Dr. Leo Betschart

Thursday, 23.3.23

SpringerMaterials (No. 30)

SpringerMaterials database contains curated data on physical and chemical properties relevant for materials science, physics, chemistry, and engineering. It also includes visualization and analysis tools that help you explore and download the data from its extensive collection.

Speaker: Dr. Jozica Dolenc

Tuesday, 28.3.23

ETH Research Collection (No. 45)

The Research Collection is the official repository of ETH Zurich. Besides your doctoral thesis and other publications, you can also share your research data and receive consultation on research data management, open access publishing, and other topics.

Speaker: Madeleine Fritschi

Wednesday, 29.3.23

Predatory Publishers & Conferences (No. 41)

Predatory conference and journal organizers spam mailboxes with invitations while providing limited services but pretending to have high standards and reputations. What separates the good guys from the bad?

Speaker: Dr. Oliver Renn

Thursday, 30.3.23

Grammarly (No. 27)

Grammarly is an online tool that helps improve the grammar, tone, and clarity of written texts. Here, we discuss the functionality and compare the free and paid versions.

Speaker: Dr. Gina Cannarozzi